Hurricane Sandy update: All Sedgwick offices expected to be operational Wednesday

We are pleased to report that none of our offices in the path of Hurricane Sandy sustained any serious damage during the storm, and all locations have power and network connectivity at this time. Pending any further reports of damage or power outages, we anticipate that all Sedgwick offices will be open on Wednesday, October 31.

While many of our colleagues are still without power at their homes, we have received no reports of sustained injuries, and for that we are most grateful.

We thank you for your patience and understanding as we put our business continuity plans into place due to hurricane-related outages. With the help of our robust remote-access technology systems and dedicated colleagues, we were able to ensure uninterrupted service for all of our clients throughout the storm.

Should you need any assistance, related to the aftermath of Hurricane Sandy or otherwise, please don't hesitate to call on your client services representative.
